

Empty Pocket Spread Guide

Blue Box Journal — Viewer Guide

QUIET
ARCHIVES

Small tucked note

A place for what is still to come...

Main pocket

Correspondence

Tiny cluster

Open page for the torn letter

What this spread is for

- This spread holds space for Grace's missing letter.
- The pocket can hold a note, tag, or later story piece.
- The facing page stays open for the torn letter.

Supplies you can use

- Patterned paper or printable pieces
- A journal page or background page
- Glue, scissors, and lace or scraps
- A small note card or tucked journaling card

How to build it

1. Layer background papers on the page.
2. Attach a main pocket near the bottom.
3. Add a small tucked note behind or above it.
4. Finish with a tiny cluster or embellishment.
5. Leave the facing page open for the torn letter.

Journaling ideas

- A place for what is still to come.
- Grace's letter has not arrived yet.
- For now, this pocket waits.
- I'll keep this place for the missing letter.

Try next

- Add the damaged letter when it arrives.
- Tuck fragments into the pocket.
- Continue the story across the facing page.